

CHRISTINA TASCON

GYAC Executive Director Angelia Perry receives a grant check from Al Gallo and Bill Mecca from the Grand Harbor Community Outreach.

Grand Harbor supports Gifford Youth Achievement Center

100 percent of donations go to supporting the disadvantaged in the community

CHRISTINA TASCON

GIFFORD — Gifford Youth Achievement Center would like to thank Grand Harbor Community Outreach for a significant donation presented to Executive Director Angelia Perry from two of its members, Bill Mecca and Al Gallo.

The check was a grant by its all volunteer nonprofit organization dedicated to addressing the unmet needs of groups and individuals in Indian River County such as ours.

Since its founding in 2001, Grand Harbor Community Outreach commits 100 percent of member donations to support the disadvantaged in our area after carefully reviewing the operations and programs of each agency who applies to make sure they have a valid impact in the community, offer effective programs and are of a high quality. With such strict standards it makes GYAC proud to know that it was chosen to receive this grant.

GYAC was founded 19 years ago to ensure that every student with need has a safe after school environment where they can study and be encouraged to meet their goals of receiving a high school diploma at graduation. More than 330 students pass through its doors every year with more on a waiting list to attend its after school programs during the school year.

The center also has programs designed for adults and seniors to better their lives through education, exercise and mental stimulation. You may find out more about the offerings at www.GYAC.net or by calling 772-794-1005.