VERO BEACH -- The Gifford Youth Achievement Center will host an open house on March 18 from 3:30 to 5:00 p.m., giving guests a glimpse of GYAC's mission in motion: to establish a partnership among children and adults of the Gifford community and surrounding municipalities of Indian River County to develop self-esteem, teach character, and encourage each individual to reach for his or her ultimate potential.

All are invited to see the students in action and explore the newly constructed Cis and Bill Educational Center, which houses middle and high school students during GYAC's Afterschool Program.

The new educational center was built to accommodate more than 50 students who were waitlisted year after year due to a lack of space. With an additional 14,000-square-foot and eight new classrooms, GYAC has the capacity to enroll an additional 125 students.

Learn what makes GYAC more than an afterschool program, enroll your child and see for yourselves why your neighbors support GYAC's mission.

Attendees will be treated to light refreshments, so an RSVP is kindly requested. For more information or to RSVP, please call 772.794.1005 or visit www.gyac.net.

GYAC Director of Philanthropy, Peggy Gibbs; Director of Public Relations and Facility Operations, Freddie Woolfork and Executive Director, Angella Perry.
